

Senzo Mchunu warns against conflicting messages on HIV and Aids 17 March 2016

Pietermaritzburg: KwaZulu-Natal Premier Senzo Mchunu has called for decisive leadership to ensure that the province turns the tide against HIV and AIDS. “Uniformity and visible leadership at all levels is needed urgently because HIV continues to threaten the social fabric of our societies,” Mchunu said.

He was speaking in his capacity as the chairperson of the Provincial Council on Aids following a meeting of the council at Greys Hospital. Members of the council include MECs, Heads of Departments, mayors, community leaders and NGOs.

He emphasized a need for a united front against the pandemic stressing that confusing messages about HIV and AIDS should be avoided at all cost.

“Avoiding unsafe sex and messages of behavioral change must be promoted and sustained in order to prevent new infections. Endless debates will hamper our efforts and we believe that we need to focus on ensuring treatment adherence as well as on campaigns around testing and counseling for confirmed HIV patients.”

“I welcome the stand taken by the ANC leadership in the province for coming out very strongly and offered to support all efforts aimed at strengthening our fights against HIV and Aids. We invite leaders from all political parties, in provincial and local government, traditional, religious leaders and those in civil society to ensure an integrated action in order to turn this situation around.”

“Leaders of society must work with communities to create ward based grassroots response involving all sectors of the community and acting together outside party political and partisan interests to save our people from this pandemic.”

“As part of the build up to the 21st International AIDS Conference we will mobilize Volunteer Corps of youth whose vibrancy and energy will help drive a programme to change behavior and mobilize the youth into a force to build our society.”

“Young people hold the key to the future but unfortunately, as they grow, they are increasingly exposed to reproductive health risks such as sexual transmitted infections and unplanned pregnancies. Our message is that prevention is better than cure. As the council we wish to announce that we are making good progress in ensuring that we have a Condom Manufacturing Plant in the province. Our plans is to produce flavoured condoms to be used by the youth.”

The company, SA Health Pty Ltd has partnered with the US based company called HBM to set up a manufacturing operation at the Dube Trade Port (DTP) Special Economic Zone. This will enable the company to distribute to African countries such as Mozambique, Zimbabwe and eventually to the rest of the continent.”

“More than 60 million is being invested during the first phase with about 200 jobs created for local communities. Trade Investment KwaZulu-Natal has been mandated by the Provincial Aids Council to facilitate this investment involving SA Health protection services and US based company called HBM.”

“Critically, the 21st International AIDS Conference provides a platform for all of us to strengthen our efforts in the fight against this scourge. The presence of international delegates will enable us to learn best practices and enhance our strategies in order to make an impact at local levels.”
